Bridging distances

The pandemic kept countless people physically apart, and consumers quickly found ways to adapt. But in 2021, we saw the sense of separation deepen. As a result, consumers crave more beyond finding brief moments of connection, to finding new ways to express themselves and nurture deeper, more ongoing relationships, both online and offline.

As more COVID-19 variants emerge, it's clear that the pandemic isn't quite over yet. COVID-19 is still a top concern for people, and consumers in APAC remain wary of being in close physical contact with others. In fact, people in India, Japan, and South Korea feel more anxious about resuming normal activities compared to the global average.[1]

But fears of resuming in-person activities haven't overridden basic human needs for personal connection and belonging. Regardless of physical distance, rising searches show us how people will continue to find new ways to connect, and how they are increasingly open to using digital to do so.

One example is how people have started to adapt the way they express their affection. In lieu of physical touch or being together, people are searching for gifts they can send their loved ones, and inspiration for the perfect way to mark a long-ago birthday or anniversary.

An October 2021 survey found that one in two APAC consumers are still choosing to meet their loved ones virtually instead of in person,[2] and searches for online gaming activities like escape rooms, races and concerts are seeing consistent growth.

As the world grows more dependent on digital technology to form meaningful human connections, brands need to move on from thinking of digital platforms as purely functional channels or just an online front end. Instead, consider how you can get longer-term value out of connecting meaningfully with your customers online.

In marketing, we often say the medium is the message. But that doesn't mean that a channel should do all the hard work for you. How are you ensuring you're reaching the human behind every channel strategy? More importantly, what can you do as a brand to help facilitate better, deeper, more meaningful relationships for your consumers?

Many people across APAC are turning to Search for inspiration on birthday or anniversary-well wishes like their loved ones in Australia, Vietnam, Thailand, and the Philippines, search interest in 誕生日 (birthday wishes) for, 기념일 (in-ma-ssi) (anniversary greetings), and meaningful birthday message for best friend have grown by up to 100%.

Gifting has become an important expression of connection during lockdown, with searches globally across APAC by up to 40%.[3] Indonesians are looking for gift box ideas, and Singapore sees the highest drop in non-residential population since COVID-19 restrictions in Tanjong Pagar, which have grown by 40%.

In Japan, shoppers are looking for ways to digitize gift giving experiences, with 40% more search interest in オンライン ギフト (online gift), and Australians are seeing 20% more searches for help to deliver gifts and hampers.

Photobooths have seen more than 350% growth across APAC countries, as people are taking time to capture moments that others cannot be there in person for.[4]

Digital for personal connection

Technology is enabling people to connect in innovative ways, sparking interest in virtual versions of activities such as group meals, escape rooms, and concerts. Even holiday gatherings are going digital, with 1 in 3 APAC adults (31%) in 2021 saying they're expecting to celebrate Christmas 2021 with their loved ones via online video calls.[5,6,7]

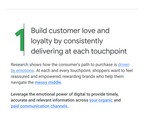
We see 390% growth in search interest in group order in the Philippines as Filipinos look for ways to share meals together, even while apart. Correspondingly, big food service brands are offering spend to many and multi-delivery services that allow friends to order as a group meal and receive meals in different locations at the same time.

We see 350% growth in search interest in group order in the Philippines as Filipinos look for ways to share meals together, even while apart. Correspondingly, big food service brands are offering spend to many and multi-delivery services that allow friends to order as a group meal and receive meals in different locations at the same time.

We see up to 520% growth in people searching for the online or virtual equivalent of offline experiences. For example, virtual concert in Singapore, virtual tour in the Philippines, virtual race in Malaysia, virtual escape rooms in Australia, and オンライン コンサート (online concert) in Japan.

We see 390% growth in search interest in group order in the Philippines as Filipinos look for ways to share meals together, even while apart. Correspondingly, big food service brands are offering spend to many and multi-delivery services that allow friends to order as a group meal and receive meals in different locations at the same time.

We see 350% growth in search interest in group order in the Philippines as Filipinos look for ways to share meals together, even while apart. Correspondingly, big food service brands are offering spend to many and multi-delivery services that allow friends to order as a group meal and receive meals in different locations at the same time.



We see 80% growth in search interest in group order in the Philippines as Filipinos look for ways to share meals together, even while apart. Correspondingly, big food service brands are offering spend to many and multi-delivery services that allow friends to order as a group meal and receive meals in different locations at the same time.

People in South Korea are looking online for things to do outside with others - search interest in 야외 활동 (hiking club) searches grew by more than 80%.

In the Philippines, we saw over 25% more search interest in the terms games plus friends like online games with friends.

Online expressions of affection

Love languages are keeping up with the changing times, with people searching for ways to show affection without in-person interactions. Gift-giving has been particularly trendy in APAC, where more than half the online population has bought a gift for someone online, trending higher than any other region in the world.[8]